

I do not recommend putting the ramp in on the south side for a start the organ is there - but if it went - the end of the south aisle will be particularly prayerful with 2 fine stained glass windows and the sun coming in. A ramp would disrupt the space whereas the north side is the place for circulation and indeed the route to the Vestry.

This is the parish's preferred option as the ramp does not intrude so much into the north aisle. The CBC visitors were keen that the space by the north aisle entrance remain open and welcoming
